Elmwood Court

Dovetail were approached to install Intratone intercoms at Elmwood court following an incident where someone broke into the property due to their current intercom's call system being broken, allowing anyone to anonymously ring the flats. The property managers saw they were unable to fix their current intercom as the parts were no longer available to fix it. They saw it would be cheaper and easier to install intratone's system than to try fix their current one. The installation took 2 hours and allowed the property a more effective security system.
